

Editorial Note

Greetings to all the readers and well-wishers of the Journal of Development Economics and Management Research Studies (JDMS). The lockdown is continuing in many countries and they have taken several measures in containing the spread of COVID-19. In spite of the ameliorative measures adopted in these countries the number of victims of the pandemic COVID-19 is still alarming and posing threat to people. This is visibly seen from its uninvited entry into many countries and killed 3,65,966 people and 58,91,182 people of confirmed cases as of 31.05.2020.

The countries of the World have promulgated variety of stimulus package to bring their people and economy back to its normal position. The infusion of Rs.20 lakh crore rupees by the Government of India in to the different sectors of the economy for its revival is commendable and it will bring desirable results in the beneficiary sectors. In this package, the allotted amount of Rs.3 lakh crore for MSMEs and Rs.30,000 crore for NBFCs are remarkable. In addition, the latest announcement by the Government of India on Private Equity Funds (FE) and Foreign Portfolio Investors (FPI) and the AAR requirements needs to be analysed.

The stimulus measures for labour sector, agriculture, industries, construction industry, banking sector, PSUs, exports & imports etc., are remarkable and if the package reaches the real target group then it will be incredible achievement of the Government. Apart from this the State Governments also announced many programmes with their own resources and from the grant received from the Central Government.

Altogether, programmes are ready and money is ready to light the sectors back to its position. The common public and working force needs extra reinforcement in terms of psychologically and financially to recoup their lockdown losses. Creating positive situation in the economy will remove pessimism which is the need of the hour to revive the countries from recession.

We invite scholarly articles from people across the field as per the guidelines given in this website.

Dr.S.Thirunavukkarasu
Founder-Editor